

Keys to Hope will be open to all

Sep 30, 2014

Initially many believed the Keys to Hope Resource Center was going to be a homeless shelter and soup kitchen. Once this concern was put to bed, we now have letters in the Anvil Chorus referring to it as a Homeless Resource Center. This also is inaccurate.

Keys to Hope Resource Center will be an empowerment/enrichment center, open to men and women from the greater La Porte County area who require assistance. It is true that some may be homeless, but these may not be the dominant clients because it's open to all in our community that need help.

Look at it as a business operated by an Indiana non-profit corporation with more than 20 years' experience helping people in need. It will be opened during normal business hours and staffed with professionals.

This operation will rehabilitate and occupy a vacant building that was an eyesore overrun with weeds and in great need of a facelift. This will be an asset to our community and fill a very great void. We need to thank those that step forward to fill this need, and let them get on with their work.
